"The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof, the world and they that dwell therein" – Psalm 24:1

Man's exploits into the heavens really began in Cape Canaveral, Florida. The Government called it NASA. Everyone calls it the Space Center. Thousands of people journeyed to Florida to see the great shots.

The Apollo 8 mission gave the world the stunning picture of the earth from the moon. On Christmas eve as the three astronauts Borman, Anders, and Lovell, circled the moon, they read back to the earth the first 10 verses of Genesis 1 from the Bible. Millions listened. "In the beginning God . . ."

The picture therefore with these words from the Bible may now be seen almost anywhere in the world – in churches, Government offices, factories, airports, and schools. This picture is available for all in Cape Canaveral.

It was Job, one of the earliest of the patriarchs, who said, "He hangeth the earth upon nothing."

An entirely new perspective has been given to mankind. The earth has shrunk. Its annual journey around the sun places it in a galaxy called the solar system, and now we have nine planets circling the sun.

The Space Center is now to be the gateway to the Space Platform. The next ten years will witness spectacular accomplishments in space: factories, labs, communities, experiments of every conceivable kind are in the planning as man prepares to live permanently in the sky.

Florida is called the sunshine state, and millions of Americans are focusing their attention on this most rapidly growing section of the country. The winters are ideal, with the flowers, the birds and then comes the delightful springtime. The summers are mild with breezes from the Gulf and South Atlantic. The ocean is clear, full of fish with gentle lapping waves on the beach. Boating, bathing, fishing, flying, touring – everything is at hand. In the midst of all of this, alongside the Space Center, Hilton built his Cape Kennedy Hilton where the astronauts stayed. Some of them spent their last night in these hotel rooms before climbing into the capsule to make their journey and keep their appointments in the heavens.

When the original space program was cut back, the entire area was affected. It was at this time that Dr. Carl McIntire, who directed the Cape May Bible Conference in America's oldest seashore resort, Cape May, N. J., established the "Gateway to the Stars" taking over the Hilton Hotel.

There was only one name fit for it all – "The Gateway to the Stars." From here man had left the earth and walked on the moon and from here the capsules had made their way to Mars. Three are now on the way to the outer rim of the solar system itself.

What finer or better place for a Conference that exalts God's Word and deals with the revelation that God has given of the last days – the return of the Lord Jesus Christ as promised and the consummation of a new heaven and earth.

This is the Cape Canaveral story.

"When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained" - Psalm 8:3

To have a Bible conference in this location, and a conference where men come who believe in the Creator and glory in the works of His hands in both the skies and on the land is indeed a manifestation of God's purpose. Here redemption's song may be heard. It is creation that Canaveral is exploring. It is redemption that Revelation proclaims, and redemption restores creation.

As unbelieve and apostasy, compromise and confusion abound everywhere, the spectacle of nature's God-honoring strict obedience to His laws in the heavens offers a sense of security. Here is a soul-saving station. Here is a sense akin to dwelling in the skies. Here is a constant up-look into the heavens.

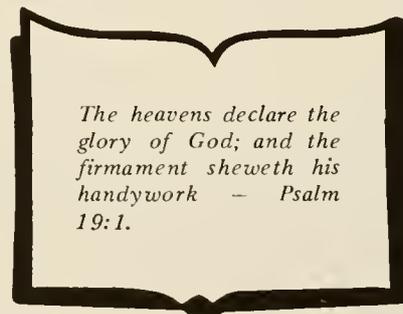

The flaming rockets have passed this way. The sputtering chariots of spacemen have left their trails of flame and smoke. Somehow it all seems to point to the promise of the glorious Return. The rockets have vanished behind the clouds. Yet, the Scriptures announce, "Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him" (Rev. 1:7). Millions have come to the Space Center to see the rockets disappear beyond the blue or between the clouds.

Cape Canaveral seems to lift the earth itself closer to the heavens.

Cape Canaveral has an outstretched arm beckoning to the planets.

Cape Canaveral produces a pause, as one realizes that he is so near the place where men defied the law of gravity and decided to walk about the moon.

The Believer looks into the heavens. His faith becomes alive. Cape Canaveral seems to inspire. It is all from the Word of God. But that day will come when He shall gather His elect from one end of the heavens to the other, and the Messiah, the Prince of Peace, the King of Glory shall come in.

ORBITER LANDING FACILITY

When the Space Shuttle Orbiter returns to Earth after its mission, it will land at the Kennedy Space Center on one of the largest runways in the world. The concrete runway is almost 3 miles long and 300 feet wide.

The "odd couple" lift their collective noses up for take-off as captive flight tests of the Space Shuttle Orbiter "Enterprise" got underway. The orbiter, about the size of a DC-9 jet transport, was carried piggyback atop a specially-modified Boeing 747 jet transport.

CAPE MAY BIBLE CONFERENCE

The purchase of the Christian Admiral was the first step in forming the Cape May Bible Conference. It towers over the intriguing, historic town of Cape May noted for its Victorian atmosphere. It has been dedicated to the glory of God and the faith once delivered to the saints. For further information write to Christian Admiral, Cape May, New Jersey 08204, or phone 609-884-8471.

Cape May and Cape Canaveral have become twin bases for the promotion of the Gospel and the cause of freedom.

The comfortable, air-conditioned Eagle buses are used during the hot summer months to transport you to cool Cape May where you will stay at the historic Congress Hall, which was the Summer White House for several Presidents of the United States. Congress Hall overlooks the Atlantic Ocean with its beaches of glistening white sand.

Psalm 48

GREAT is the LORD, and greatly to be praised in the city of our God, in the mountain of his holiness.

2 Beautiful for situation, the joy of the whole earth, is mount Zion, on the sides of the north, the city of the great King.

3 God is known in her palaces for a refuge.

4 For, lo, the kings were assembled, they passed by together.

5 They saw it, and so they marvelled; they were troubled, and hasted away.

6 Fear took hold upon them there, and pain, as of a woman in travail.

7 Thou breakest the ships of Tarshish with an east wind.

8 As we have heard, so have we seen in the city of the LORD of hosts, in the city of our God: God will establish it for ever. Selah.

9 We have thought of thy lovingkindness, O God, in the midst of thy temple.

10 According to thy name, O God, so is thy praise unto the ends of the earth: thy right hand is full of righteousness.

11 Let mount Zion rejoice, let the daughters of Judah be glad, because of thy judgments.

12 Walk about Zion, and go round about her: tell the towers thereof.

13 Mark ye well her bulwarks, consider her palaces; that ye may tell it to the generation following.

14 For this God is our God for ever and ever: he will be our guide even unto death.
